

Harkins House Productions Revamps Website!

Yes we know, revamping a website doesn't seem like a cause for celebration, but when you think about how far HHP has come since its' launch in 2010, we have a right to be excited. A lot has happened in four years! The company is poised to move forward with its mission to revolutionize indie theatre by offering a dynamic range of services, continuing to produce innovative stage plays, as well as provide thriving community service initiatives and cultural events. Besides switching to a lighter more engaging theme, here are the major goodies that have been added to the site:

- Our new theatre imprints, Millennial Stageworks and the Legacy Series. These two imprints have been created to meet the needs of specific groups and execute special productions.
- Professional services that will allow us to demonstrate how theatre can be incorporated into businesses, nonprofits, and everyday life.
- Our new blog, The InkWell, where we will share some engaging tidbits that'll quench our audience and site visitors' thirst for knowledge about Black culture with a special emphasis on theatre. It's also a platform for us to interact with our audience.
- Lastly, our news room. Our audience won't have to worry about missing another exciting (or not so exciting) detail about the company.

If you have not already, be sure to like our fanpage on Facebook. Find the link as well as other ways to follow us on the web by locating the toolbar at the upper right hand corner!